

The Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training is pleased to announce a pilot presentation of a recently developed public safety dispatcher in-service training course:

Team Building Concepts for Public Safety Communications Personnel

The purpose of this course is to provide public safety dispatch personnel with the tools and resources needed to operate as part of a well-functioning team within a communications center environment. The course addresses fundamental issues such as team structures, team and interpersonal dynamics, and the common dysfunctions plaguing teams. A main emphasis of the training is the exploration and development of pragmatic and viable strategies for building a unified, cohesive, and well-focused work group. The course is structured to be a highly interactive, learner-centered experience which promotes personal introspection and deliberate examination of the individual's role in promoting team success. The student will leave the course with a personal plan to build, enhance, and re-energize work teams within their own organization. The course will be particularly valuable to lead dispatchers, designated team or project leaders, as well as supervisory or management-level personnel.
